Clarinet in E \flat , Clarinet in D, Clarinet in B \flat , Bass Clarinet in B \flat and Contrabass Clarinet in B \flat

Violin 1 with egg shaker, claves and Swanee whistle
Violin 2 with egg shaker, claves and Swanee whistle
Viola with egg shaker, claves and Swanee whistle
Cello with egg shaker, claves and Swanee whistle

by

Liz Johnson

dedicated to Ronald Woodley

duration c. 28 minutes

PERFORMANCE NOTES

Each player has a number of instruments. [If the string players do not have access to the small handheld percussion, substitute similar sounds using the string instrument, e.g. egg shaker = bow/tremolo behind the bridge/on the body; claves = col legno battuto; Swanee whistle = fingered harmonics glissandi], or similar.

Vocal sounds: as marked by the square bracket, make vocal shushing, ssssss and tutting sounds.

Material in boxes: repeat the material within the box, following the instructions. The arrow indicates how long the box is repeated for, or a square bracket gives the duration in seconds. Rests have been kept in the parts to show clearly where the bar lines occur.

Cues: all clarinet cues on a separate staff in the string parts are transposed. Any cues written in the string staff itself are in C.

Multiple Tempi: in some sections there is no or little vertical alignment of material. Cues are clearly marked and each player should be aware of where they give others a clear cue to begin the next bar together, as marked.

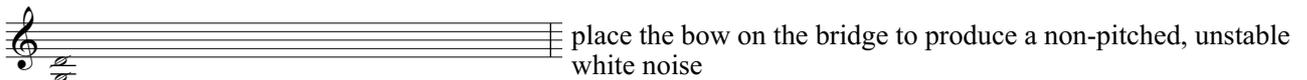

Headings and quotations: section headings By Candlelight, Morlo, Smerkling Dragon, Gwennol refer to the poem Crag Inspector (2002) by David Hart, from which the text quotations are taken.

Seal song contour:

The seal song is taken from a melody described in People of the Sea by David Thomas (1954) recounting the experience of Mrs. Kennedy-Fraser who heard this phrase sung back to her by a seal:

This melody appears several times, often at extreme registers and sometimes altered. The Swanee whistles are asked to play this contour, at any pitch.

PROGRAMME NOTE

Sea-change was commissioned by clarinettist Ronald Woodley to feature five of his different clarinets. The opening of the music explores notes played by each of the five instruments centred around the G below middle C, interspersed with breath sounds and glowing chords.

The piece is an exploration of how the mind behaves when 'following the breath', as in a meditation. Often, at the beginning of a meditation my mind is settled and clear, but I often find this is hard to maintain. Thoughts, dreams or fantasies can take over. In this piece, my mind keeps coming back to the poetry of David Hart's Crag Inspector. Fragments of the poem are included in the score, hinting at the wild landscape of Bardsey Island, on which the poem is set. The Welsh words included are from the poem: Morlo = seal, Gwennol = swallow.
